EG 2022-2023 (1st prize)

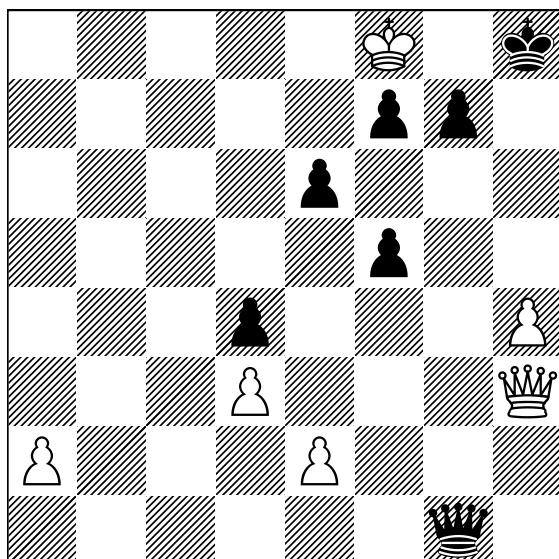

File: Neuenschwander-2023-EG-1p.pgn

This study has a long history. It goes back to the year 1989, when I worked on a pawn ending with a reciprocal zugzwang position requiring the paradoxical move 1.a3! (instead of 1.a4) and allowing black to promote to a queen first.

About 8 years ago I took up the idea again but was unable to find the original version (which was, if I remember correctly, not particularly exciting despite the festina lente theme). So I had to start from scratch but was unable to find a decent realization, until last year. It was worth the wait as can be seen in the final version published in EG. The switch forth and back between queen and pawn endings adds a nice twist to the main theme of the study.

Theme: A white piece occupies a square X at least twice during the solution, then leaves it. These occupations must be done without capture and without check.
The thematic piece may not be the white king.

The thematic square is a1. The solution of the study is easy although some precision is needed towards the end.

The cook can easily be avoided by placing the black rook on f5. Note that the minor dual on move 2 could also be avoided with the black rook on f7 in the starting position. However, this would remove some content.

The correction by the late Sarah-Siegfried Hornecker is quite heavy but has the advantage of showing a pure stalemate in the try. The new correction is closer to the original but the stalemate is not pure.
